Section 4. Concise Explanation of English Language Listed Information Items

1.U.S. Patent No. 3,969,245, issued to Ramirez on July 13, 1976

Teaches an electrocoagulation system for removing pollutants from wastewater including: flowing wastewater through an electrocoagulation cell having rod-shaped electrodes to produce an embryo floc; treating the wastewater with a flocculant to form a full floc; creating laminar flow and skimming the floc.

2.U.S. Patent 5,178,755, issued to LaCrosse on January 12, 1993

Teaches an ultraviolet enhanced ozone wastewater treatment system including: mixing ozone with wastewater; removing suspended solids in a multi-stage clarifier; exposing clarified effluent to ultraviolet radiation (to reduce bacteria and generate OH radicals); recirculating the effluent for additional ozone injection and UV irradiation, and filtering effluent.

3.U.S. Patent 5,234,606, issued to Karazma et al. on August 10, 1993

Teaches a method for treating water polluted by organic chlorine compound including: adding oxidizing agent to raw water disinfect bacteria; removing suspended solids; irradiating the raw water with ultraviolet rays to decompose organic chlorine compounds, and reducing residual oxidizing agents by activated carbon and catalytic resin.

4.U.S. Patent 5,560,831, issued to Bladen et al. on October 1, 1996

Teaches a method for washing agricultural products including feeding water containing contaminants washed from agricultural products to a series of coagulation steps (feeding the underflow of the second and successive compartments); treating ultimate underflow with ozone and recirculating underflow to wash agricultural products.

5.U.S. Patent 5,679,257, issued to Coate et al. on October 21, 1997

Teaches a wastewater system including adjusting PH value; applying ozone and ultrasound; applying ozone and ultraviolet light, and applying a magnetic field and an electrochemical process. The system further includes filtering steps.

6.U.S. Patent 5,888,403, issued to Hayashi on March 30, 1999

Teaches a wastewater treatment system including an ozone mixer, a magnetic force, a filter, a second ozone mixer, a second magnetic force, an activated carbon reaction vessel and a second filter.

7.U.S. Patent No. 6,027,653 issued to Holland on February 22, 2000

Teaches the utilization of a solidifying organic polymer-based filtration media and activated carbon placed in separate containers and arranged in an in-line, two phase process to extract organic compounds and metals from feed streams containing emulsified or suspended concentrations of organic contaminants by absorbing and solidifying the organics into an easily retrievable, disposable mass.
